Mr. Christopher R. Caile

Dear Mr. Caile:

Your appeal of 9 October 1973 has been reviewed by the CIA Information Review Committee. That Committee concurs in the original determination that with minor deletions the documents may be declassified and released to you. I am advised that the Archivist has forwarded to you the documents from which the necessary deletions have been made. The deletions consist of the removal of a single individual's name from each of four documents and a portion of the heading from the fifth document. These deletions are deemed necessary to protect intelligence sources and methods, but do not, in the judgment of the Information Review Committee, have any effect upon the substance of the documents.

Sincerely,

Angus MacLean Thuermer
Assistant to the Director
